Choosing locally sourced wood is not only environmentally friendly; it is also beneficial to your deck. Our deck builder Seattle is proud to use regional wood varieties that are well-suited to the local climate. These materials are typically more durable, require less treatment, and reduce your carbon footprint. Supporting local mills benefits your community's economy. Locally sourced wood blends well with natural landscapes and weathers more predictably. Call our Mercer Island deck builder now.
